Not a lotta love: Philly lawyer sues Led Zeppelin

The big boys. The Media attorney hopes to settle the score with a dead guitarist and the iconic band.

Last week, garrulous Media-based lawyer Francis Alexander Malofiy became one of the most well-known litigators due to two high-profile cases pitting his Davids against the Goliaths of the music business.

The first case is his most famous: Malofiy's intention to sue Led Zeppelin for allegedly plagiarizing the iconic intro to 1971's "Stairway to Heaven" from deceased Spirit composer Randy California and his 1968 song "Taurus."

Malofiy also wants to prevent Rhino Records' newly remixed "Led Zeppelin IV" reissue that "Stairway" resides on, until California is given credit. When asked via email if he's heard from Zeppelin's reps, Malofiy said: "Absolutely nothing … crickets."

Quoted

"Led Zeppelin needs to do the right thing and give credit where credit is due. I take cases I believe in, where individuals have been hurt or trampled upon by big corporations ..."

Malofiy

The second case garnered as much attention as the potential Zeppelin suit, but for the wrong reasons (so far): Malofiy client Dan Marino sued Usher and 19 co-defendants for a "Club Girl," a song he co-wrote, which eventually became Usher's 2004 hit "Bad Girl."

Marino claims he never received his due in terms of credits or payment. U.S. District Judge Paul S. Diamond ruled in favor of Usher and company and elaborated on Malofiy's behavior (including Malofiy telling a rival lawyer, "Don't be a girl about this" during deposition) and actions during the case itself.

As for the Led Zeppelin vs. Spirit/California, he cites two precedents: The first, a well-known music biz secret: "This is hardly the first time Led Zeppelin has been accused of lifting their most famous songs," cited Malofiy, mentioning "Whole Lotta Love" and "The Lemon Song," among others, adding that Zeppelin "settled those matters out of court."

As for the fact Spirit's "Taurus" came out in 1968 (the same year Zeppelin toured the U.S. opening for Spirit), Malofiy points toward May 2014's U.S. Supreme Court ruling on Petrella v. Metro Goldwyn Mayer, the "Raging Bull" case, where copyright infringement claims can be recovered after the statute of limitations.

More from Malofiy

Repeated phone and email inquiries regarding Malofiy's personal background yielded little. Yet, he was clear about things in regard to his music-related cases.

- "It must be stressed there is no question that Marino is the true author of 'Club Girl' and 'Bad Girl,'" he said.

Not smart. Student pulls out gun in class

A Community College of Philadelphia student pulled out a gun during a chemistry class on the Center City campus Wednesday and pointed it at a fellow student, reports say.

NBC10 is reporting that the alleged gun handler, Ryan Fitch, 23, of Northeast Philadelphia, barged into the class, which was held in the West Building, accused another student of reporting him to security, and then whipped out the gun.

No shots were fired and the argument may have been over a girlfriend, the outlet reported.

Police officials posted to Twitter that the building was evacuated around 12:30 p.m. as a precaution. Students and teachers in other sections of the school were told to take shelter, reports say.

No injuries were reported. Fitch was apprehended by police shortly after the incident, according to NBC10. METRO

No dice. Philadelphia will not bid on 2024 Summer Olympics

While it still considers itself a viable option, the city decided to hang back and wait for another opportunity to make a serious push to host the Olympics in Philadelphia.

Mayor Michael Nutter released his letter to the United States Olympic Committee officials, which pulls Philadelphia out of the running to host the 2024 Summer Olympic Games.

Nutter said in the statement that city officials spent a year determining whether to place a bid. His appointed committee helped him conclude the city just wasn't ready.

"However, we do believe that Philadelphia has what it takes to bid on and host an Olympic Games in the future, and will continue to foster our successful working relationship with the USOC and support their efforts," Nutter said.

Meryl Levitz, president and CEO of Visit Philadelphia, said it was the right decision for the city to do its due diligence.

"I think Philly has shown that we can do big events here of an international scale and that they're very good for us to do," Levitz said, "but not all events are equally good for us to do."

SATURDAY, MAY 31ST

FRED BEANS HISTORIC USED CAR SALE

Doylestown, PA – Fred Beans, CEO and Founder of the Fred Beans Automotive Group located in Doylestown, PA, has announced a ONE DAY SALE on Saturday, May 31st at 9:00AM, where pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. This sale is being held due to overwhelming public demand.

Cars will be clearly marked, so come early for the best selection. This is a ONE DAY ONLY sale designed to get the local community driving again.

Fred Beans' pre-owned inventory levels need to be reduced to make room for shipments of new models arriving daily. As a result, all 8 Fred Beans Doylestown locations are selling these overstocked pre-owned vehicles to the public at drastic discounts in an attempt to clear excess inventory.

In addition to this huge variety of pre-owned vehicles, the Fred Beans Family of Dealerships in Doylestown features new Ford, Lincoln, Mitsubishi, Dodge, Chrysler, Jeep, Hyundai, Nissan, Subaru, Chevrolet, Cadillac, Buick, and GMC vehicles.

Fred Beans believes reviving the economy starts at home, and changing things locally will lead to changing things nationally.

In addition to the Fred Beans Family of Dealerships' extra inventory, additional vehicles have been acquired at incredible prices from various banks, repossession companies, auto auctions, credit unions, lease companies, and rental companies for this sale.

The sale will make pre-owned vehicles available for as low as $999, prices not normally offered to the general public. According to Fred Beans, "We want to give our customers a reason to believe in the local economy again. Someone has to look out for their best interests."

Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM to inspect the entire inventory and find the car that is right for them. Every vehicle will be cleaned, detailed, and fully prepared for instant delivery. On the evening of May 30th after close of business, Mr. Beans and his team will mark the special sale price on each and every vehicle.

Because Fred Beans' customers are feeling the credit crunch right now, the Fred Beans Automotive Group has given the dealerships' financing managers the resources necessary to get most customers' credit approved on the spot.

The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships has $10,000,000 in lending power, the result of over 50 years of strong relationships with the area's leading lenders. This means that customers with "less than perfect" credit history can have their credit approved and drive a quality pre-owned car, truck, or SUV home by lunchtime on Saturday.

Even if a customer's credit report shows a bankruptcy, divorce, tax lien, slow payment history, missed payment, or repossession, or if a customer is a first time buyer, Fred Beans may get them approved.

This special ONE DAY ONLY sale will be held at all 8 Fred Beans Doylestown locations this Saturday, May 31st, at 9:00AM.

Pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM for the start of inspection. Incredible sale prices, starting as low as $999, will be posted no later than 8:00AM. All vehicles will be sold on a first come, first serve basis. The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships is expecting a high volume of customers for this sale, so be sure to reserve your spot early.

Customers wishing to trade in a vehicle are asked to bring their title or payment book for immediate delivery. Fred Beans will even pay off your trade-in in full, no matter how much you still owe on it.

Most of these surplus pre-owned vehicles will get sent directly to auto auctions for liquidation. So, if anyone has been thinking about purchasing a good, clean, dependable pre-owned car, truck, van or sport utility vehicle, do not miss this special ONE DAY ONLY sale.

Courtesy transportation available from all local airports, train stations and bus depots.

DA: Deer corpses used to fake vehicle accidents

Deer X-ing. Insurance fraud alleged at collision shop reputed to have mob ties.

Prosecutors announced Tuesday that alleged mob associate Ronald Galati Sr. and 40 other suspects are charged with defrauding insurance companies out of more than $2 million from Galati's South Philly collision shop.

Several suspects allegedly allowed their cars to be used for fake "deer hits," including Stephen Ligambi, son of reputed mob boss Joseph Ligambi.

"They actually kept deer carcasses at their shop, simulated accidents and took photographs they called 'Hollywood Photos,'" District Attorney Seth Williams said of one insurance scam the shop is alleged to have engaged in. "They would pour deer blood over cars."

The remnants of deer were acquired from hunting trips to South Jersey by Galati and his friends, prosecutors said.

Eventually, Erie Insurance referred the cluster of "deer hit" claims coming out of Galati's American Collision and Auto Center to prosecutors for investigation.

Galati was previously arrested in December on charges of hiring three men to murder a witness who testified before the grand jury investigating this alleged insurance fraud, reports say.

Also charged in the case are former city police officer Douglas DiEmidio, who allegedly wrote phony accident reports, and Robert Otterson, a city employee who allegedly helped Galati fraudulently get a contract worth $1.2 million to repair city vehicles.

Murder trial. Lawyer claims self-defense

Loidy G. Irrizari Marte, 23, was held in court on murder charges at a preliminary hearing Wednesday, despite her defense attorney Robert Mozenter claiming she acted in self-defense.

Marte's friend, Oralis Hernandez, testified that Marte tried to give Liunel Perez CPR after she stabbed him near his collarbone on March 30 in her Northeast Philadelphia home.

Hernandez said Perez had previously entered the house and attacked Marte around 5:30 a.m. that day.

"It happened so fast. He was just dragging her all around the kitchen, like throwing her into the stove," Hernandez said. "He tried to raise his hands to her neck and that's when she stabbed him."

Police found Perez lying dead between two cars outside the house. Marte was arrested May 9.

Author, poet Maya Angelou dies at 86

Legacy of wisdom.
The African-American writer died at her North Carolina home.

Author and poet Maya Angelou, an eloquent commentator on race and gender best known for her groundbreaking autobiography "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings," has died at age 86 in North Carolina.

"She was a warrior for equality, tolerance and peace. The family is extremely appreciative of the time we had with her and we know that she is looking down upon us with love," her family said.

Her latest work, "Mom & Me & Mom," about her mother and grandmother and what they taught her, was released last year.

In her last tweet on May 23, Angelou said, "Listen to yourself and in that quietude you might hear the voice of God."

Literary and entertainment figures, politicians and fans mourned her passing on Wednesday.

President Barack Obama called her "a brilliant writer, a fierce friend and a truly phenomenal woman."

"With a kind word and a strong embrace, she had the ability to remind us that we are all God's children, that we all have something to offer," Obama said in a statement from the White House.

Drinking religiously in Philly

Biblical brews. The spirit is divine at Philly Beer Week.

A rabbi, a priest and a minister will walk into a bar during Philly Beer Week. And it won't be the first time.

Father Kirk Berlenbach of Roxborough's St. Timothy's Episcopal Church, along with Rabbi Eli Freedman of Rodeth Shalom on N. Broad St. and Pastor Bryan of Washington, D.C., will hold court once again at Fergie's Pub in Center City for "A Rabbi, a Priest and a Minister Walk into a Bar a Second Time," part of Beer Week.

Their appearance last year was a hit.

"Each of us takes a few minutes to talk about our passion for beer, that's part of why we're all there," Berlenbach says. "[We also talk] how we see beer as a vital part of our spiritual lives and our understanding and connection with God. Each of us has our own little take on it."

Hey, some like ales, some like lagers. The three men of God will deliver initial statements and then take questions. The event is as much about bringing ministry to where the people are as it is about the type of hops in a craft beer.

"We're trying to help people see that the world of established religions is bigger and more welcoming than many people might have a pre-conception of," says Berlenbach, who will also join Freedman at "Support Our Food System: A Brew Haha!" on June 5 at the Impact Hub in Northern Liberties.

'Every day is Beer Week'

Daniel Neuner won this year's Beer Week raffle to travel to Belgium to brew the official Beer Week beer. He and a few of the city's brewers went over with a little Pennsylvania honey to sweeten things up.

"We had the honey in our luggage," says William Reed, co-owner of Standard Tap in Northern Liberties and Johnny Brenda's in Fishtown and a founder of Philly Beer Week.

The result, the Philly Triple Belgium Ale, a collaboration between Brewery Dilewyns in Belgium and Philly's Dock Street Brewing, will be unveiled Friday at Opening Tap at the 23rd Street Armory, with more than 40 local breweries in attendance and, of course, the Hammer of Glory: the ceremonial mallet.

There will be hundreds of beer-themed events across the city over the 10 days of Beer Week. It was started in 2008 and has inspired more than 100 similar events around the world, Reed says.

"It's bigger than I thought it would be," he adds. "For some of us, every day is Beer Week."

From best-selling authors, to actors and politicians, poet and author Maya Angelou inspired us all. Here, see tweets from Chirlane McCray, J.K. Rowling, America Ferrera, Lena Dunham and Rose McGowan, all expressing their love for the "she-ro."

@Chirlane: Honoring Maya Angelou and her bold, magnificent voice. May she live on through her words and through all of us she has touched.

@lenadunham: Thank you, Maya, for your power, your politics, your poetry. We need you more than ever. Rest in peace.

@jk_rowling: "If you are always trying to be normal, you will never know how amazing you can be." Maya Angelou — who was utterly amazing.

@AmericaFerrera: Maya Angelou is my hero. She gave me courage to love myself and others. Her life was a gift to so many. — America Ferrera @rosemcgowan: Maya Angelou, a true American hero. A woman of uncommon eloquence & strength. The stars are less lonesome now, the caged bird is free.

One Direction passes one doobie in leaked video

To prepare for a gig in front of thousands of impressionable preteens, you can either: A. Warm up your vocals; B. Rest; or in One Direction's case, C. Film yourself smoking marijuana.

In a five-minute video obtained by the Daily Mail, Louis Tomlinson films his bandmate Zayn Malik as they both light up and smoke what appears to be a joint on a ride to their show in Peru.

As expected, Twitter erupted with young girls devastated that their idols would ever touch the stuff. In an attempt to distract, bandmate Liam Payne, one of the three members not present in the video, tweeted out hashtag #WearAsManyClothesAsYouCanAtOnceFor1D. Thousands of fans tweeted out pictures of themselves layered in clothing and thanking Payne for saving the fandom. But not before several One Directioners posted photos of ripped-up concert tickets in effigy. Hey, they may smoke herb, but at least they're not telling teenagers to take off all their clothes, right? SIOBHAN REDDING

Talking point

Sum 41 rocker improving, he says

Sum 41's Deryck Whibley shocked us again by posting a pic of his recovering self on Facebook. The former pop-punk star recently admitted he was hospitalized for alcohol and has been revealing pictures of himself looking way worse for the wear, but well on his way to recovery. "I just wanted to thank you all so much for sending gifts and all of the compassion and support you have shown me," he wrote, adding that he'll be "back on stage" soon.

Mariah: I'll bead there

Better late than never, especially if you show up in a dress like this! Mariah Carey nearly bared it all at Tuesday night's World Music Awards in Monte Carlo, opening up the show with her new song "Meteorite." But the sexy starlet was FOUR hours late! The audience didn't care too much, reports say, especially since the 44-year-old stepped out in this sexy Zuhair Murad number. There are also photos of her at Nice Airport, flying home in the gown! Talk about traveling in style. No sweats for Mimi!

AMC's latest hopes it will 'Catch Fire'

Interview. Lee Pace may be ambitious on AMC's new tech drama, but he wants you to know he's still a nice guy in real life.

If Lee Pace looks familiar, you're probably a fan of 2007's beloved but too quickly canceled "Pushing Daisies," or the similarly beloved but also canceled "Wonderfalls." The actor says of working on "Pushing Daisies," "It was a time in my life that I'll never forget." He can next be seen in AMC's newest drama, "Halt and Catch Fire."

The title refers to a computer command that causes all activities to compete so heavily for focus that nothing can move forward and the computer has to be reset. The show is set in the early '80s during the PC race. IBM had a virtual lock on the market, but that doesn't stop Pace's Joe MacMillan from trying to get in on the fun. He enlists a rebellious but brilliant college student (Mackenzie Davis) and an engineer (Scoot McNairy) struggling to accept the slightly humdrum turn his life has taken. Together, they try to create their own PC, all while avoiding legal trouble from IBM.

MacMillan, at least in the pilot, is a man of mystery. He first appears on screen driving a fast car and heartlessly running over an armadillo. It's symbolic of his take-no-prisoners approach to life. But don't be too hard on Joe. "I love Joe. I believe in him. He's a very complicated person," Pace says. "At the end of the day, he just wants to make you a great computer." But Pace admits, "Yeah, it's fun to be bad. Who am I kidding? It's fun to behave badly."

Technology seems to be having a pop culture moment these days, with HBO's "Silicon Valley" taking on the comedic side of the industry in the modern era. "Halt and Catch Fire" leans more toward the dramatic. Though there are some funny hairstyles, setting the show in the '80s has its upsides. "The music is pretty great. I love the soundtrack to the show," says Pace.

For all the shenanigans Pace gets to enjoy playing Joe, , he wants to remind viewers of one thing: "I'm not like that. Lee's not like that. ... Lee would swerve around the armadillo," he says.

Be prepared

No holding back

The show premieres June 1 at 10 p.m., but AMC made the pilot available early on Tumblr. If you enjoy it, get ready for things to get crazier. "It just gets more insane from here, and the lengths that Joe will go to to get this computer to the marketplace get more and more extreme," says Pace.

Angelina Jolie (with Sam Riley) has some pretty cool horns in "Maleficent." / FRANK CONNOR

What you'll see

'Maleficent'

1 "Wicked" kicked off the trend of telling classic fairy tales from the villain's point of view. It finally gets around to "Sleeping Beauty," with Angelina Jolie and her sunken face embodying one of Disney's most visually striking baddies.

2 'A Million Ways to Die in the West'
This is what happens when everyone sees "Ted." Riding high on success, its maker, Seth MacFarlane, a) makes a spoof of a genre that the world, regrettably, now hates, and b) stars in it. But hey, NPH with a handlebar 'stache.

3 'The Dance of Reality'
Thanks to superfans Kanye and St. Vincent, the masses are finally being exposed to the work of phantasmagoric Chilean artist Alejandro Jodorowsky. Good timing, too, as this is his first film since 1990's "The Rainbow Thief."

4 'Ida'
Pawel Pawlikowski ("My Summer of Love") directs this mordant drama, about a novice nun (Agata Trzebuchowska) on a road trip with her boozing aunt (Agata Kulesza) to find the grave of her parents, murdered by Nazis.

5 'Cold in July'
Michael C. Hall plays a Texas everyman whose accidental shooting of a robber leads to him enraging the man's ex-con father (Sam Shepard) and eventually Don Johnson.

6 'Chinese Puzzle'
The French dramas "L'Auberge Espagnole" and "Russian Dolls" get a threequel, this one following the onetime youths — including Audrey Tautou and Romain Duris — relocating to New York City.

7 'X-Men: Days of Future Past'
Sadly, this isn't a comic book riff on the Moody Blues album "Days of Future Passed," but the latest entry in the franchise, this one involving time travel and killer robots. Actually, that sounds more fun.

8 'The Immigrant'
The last time Joaquin Phoenix and director James Gray collaborated ("Two Lovers"), the former did his fake-rapper shtick on the press tour. Reunited, they head back to 1921 New York with Phoenix's pimp teaming up with Marion Cotillard.

Is it getting heavy?

Interview. Director Richard Ayoade had big ideas with his loose Dostoevsky adaptation "The Double."

Actor and director Richard Ayoade's latest is "The Double," which is set in a nightmarish bureaucracy.
GETTY IMAGES

Director and "The IT Crowd" star Richard Ayoade follows up his acerbic teen indie debut "Submarine" with something completely different: the clever, inventive and highly stylized "The Double," starring a pair of Jesse Eisenbergs and Mia Wasikowska as the object of their affection in a story based on Fyodor Dostoevsky's novel. And that's not the only highbrow influence involved.

This is quite different from 'Submarine.' It's more stylized.
This [character] felt like someone [who] needed to exist in a certain environment to feel this, and that environment should represent his feelings more. You know that painter Giorgio de Chirico? He was a symbolist painter and created these odd landscapes that came more out of dreams and nightmares. [This is] more that kind of a world, where you have something that's impossible but creates an emotion — like having a building that looks like it's night but has sunlight around it creates a feeling that could not exist realistically or represent something in reality.

You've also got a pretty horrifying bureaucracy on display here.
Yes, which doesn't exist in modern times anymore. In the book you feel the oppressiveness of class and those things. We didn't feel that we wanted to get into class considerations because it didn't feel necessary to the psychology of loneliness, in a way. And so it felt better to create something where someone could be oppressed by their job, whereas now the idea of someone taking his or her job seriously seems absurd. That's because in any film, if [people] are working in an office you know that is their dreary reality, and the repository of their dreams lies somewhere else. The office is the epitome of that; it's like a metaphor for frustration, somehow.

Dead ringers

How difficult was it directing two distinct Jesse Eisenberg performances in one film?
Really, as silly as it sounds, it just takes longer because you have to rehearse everything twice. So you rehearse as one character once, then rehearse as the other character. The other thing that's tricky is you never see it. You will never simultaneously see them together in a rehearsal. The rehearsal process was more similar to the feeling you have with shooting where you go, "That seems good, and when that's put together with this, it will be good, but I haven't seen it together yet." But he's very brilliant and intelligent and very thorough, and he has that ability that actors who do plays have to repeat things without them becoming rote.

Lea Michele's style secrets

Interview. The "Glee" star gives fans a peek into her everyday life.

Actress and singer Lea Michele is now a published author. In her new book, "Brunette Ambition," Michele details her journey from child star on Broadway to becoming the star of Fox's hit show "Glee." The glossy, photograph-filled book includes anecdotes about navigating life in Hollywood and her best beauty and style tips.

"I just really wanted to have the opportunity to do something for my fans," Michele says. "They are always asking me about health, beauty and fitness. So I wrote this book for them."

The book also pays tribute to Michele's singing idol Barbra Streisand: Each chapter begins with either a quote from the singer or from one of Streisand's iconic movie roles. "I think she is just amazing," Michele says of Streisand. "I remember watching 'Funny Girl' as a little girl, and I think that she's an amazing role model. I've been trying to do that for my fans [as well]."

Although Michele says that deep down, she's a jeans and T-shirt girl at heart, she also writes about her favorite award night looks and her red-carpet beauty routine. "I really love my hair and makeup team; they've been with me for a long time," she says. "When we're getting ready for the red carpet, we put on music. It's a lot of fun."

It's been a busy spring so far for Michele. In addition to promoting her new book, she just released the video for her single "On My Way" from her first solo album "Louder," and she voices the character of Dorothy in the animated film "Legends of Oz: Dorothy's Return."

"I was so happy that I had the opportunity to play Dorothy; it's such an iconic role," she says, noting that her favorite song in the film is "Work With Me."

Michele pauses for a moment when asked to name three items she thought every woman should have in her closet. "Boyfriend jeans, motorcycle boots and a leather jacket," she replies after consideration.

When asked to pick her favorite recipe in the book, her response is immediate: "I would definitely say the grilled cheese. I'd eat it every day if I could."

To text or not to text?

That is the question. Don't let texting run your life.

It was during a girls' night out in Manhattan that Lisa Winning first came up with the idea for what would become the popular website HeTexted.com.

"I found that my girlfriends were constantly talking about the texts they had gotten and what they meant," says Winning. "I thought, 'There should be a place we could go to talk about this.'"

Along with former magazine writer Carrie Henderson McDermott, Winning created HeTexted, a site devoted to decoding the combination of texts, online dating messages, online chats and Facebook posts that are a key part of modern courtship today. Winning and Henderson McDermott have just released their first book, "He Texted: The Ultimate Guide to Decoding Guys" that breaks down everything they've learned in the process.

"Everyone is so connected now, but it is a lot more confusing," Winning says of dating in the smartphone era. Since the site began two years ago, Winning has read hundreds of reader-submitted texts and messages. Here are some of the things she says every woman should keep in mind before they reach for their phones.

Set time limits

Winning warns against spending hours glued to Facebook Messenger. "Five to six messages is good, and then you should put down your phone and go out into the world."

Don't play games

"And don't stand for anyone who is playing games with you," says Winning. "Someone will ask something like, 'I've been talking to this guy on Tinder for two months, but he hasn't asked me out,' she says. "It's nothing like a face-to-face meeting."

"Bluntly, it's narcissism and ego," Winning says of why men often text women without any apparent intention of asking them out. "You can just text someone without making an effort."

Tip

Get out into the world

"Have as much fun as possible," says Winning. "Maybe put down your phone when you are actually out with people. There's nothing like interacting with people face-to-face."

Postpone that friend request

"Don't add him on Facebook," Winning counsels. "Let him add you." Also be wary of becoming Facebook friends too early in the relationship. "It's better not to have to pretend that you don't know that he has two brothers, or that you don't know where he went on vacation," she says.

Improvising in the Society Hill Society kitchen

Hot Chef. Jose Garces-trained Yun Fuentes is finding success on his own.

Last month, the small spot at 2nd and Pine that was once home to the Artful Dodger re opened its doors as Society Hill Society. The restaurant might have a slightly confusing name, but the menu is straightforward. Running the kitchen is former Jose Garces employee Yun Fuentes.

We caught up with Fuentes to chat about his buzzy new restaurant and his path to opening it.

How's it going so far at Society Hill Society?

Really well so far. We had a great opening — even though we went through what every restaurant goes through in an opening. The feedback has been positive. It feels like a workshop right now: We see what the guests want from us, and we work from there.

See more at www.metro.us

You have Headhouse Farmers Market right at your door. Are you utilizing that for your menu?

For brunch, we are definitely able to incorporate it, since the market is once a week. One of the things I put on the menu was an omelet, but I leave it open and feature one or two things that I can get from the market, such as baby Tuscan kale. Before the brunch service was over, we sold out of that. It felt so nice to be able to go to the market right away and give the farmers feedback.

Where did you move from?

Oh, I came from life! I was everywhere. North Carolina, and before that I was hoping around islands and Puerto Rico — I'm from Puerto Rico. Then I was in New York for four years. I wanted to make my way back to New York, but I fell in love with [this] city.

"A lot of people like to call menus 'the new this' or 'the new that.' But to me 'new' becomes old rather quickly. That's why I like to call it heritage cuisine. We're taking what we've gathered from the past and bringing it into modern times."

Q&A

Iron Chef

Before Society Hill Society, you were most recently at Rosa Blanca, right?

Yes. I worked for Garces for close to five years. I did many restaurants and wore many hats. I went from making salads at Amada to cooking every dish. Then I was asked to be a chef at Tinto and Village Whiskey. Working with Garces was a pleasure. It was the first job I got in Philadelphia and now I call Philadelphia my home.

Best of Philly Beer Week

Bottoms up.
We rounded up the highlights of this seven-day celebration of suds.

A server pours a beer for a Beer Week guest during Opening Tap last year. / PROVIDED

Our favorite week of the year is back for its seventh go. From Friday to June 8, bars all over the city are hosting informative, fun and just plain odd events. Here are some of the not-to-miss highlights.

Fried Chicken Run

Saturday, 3 p.m. to 2 a.m.
American Sardine Bar
1800 Federal St.
Join the Fishtown Beer Runners on a 5-mile run from Philadelphia Brewing Company to American Sardine Bar, where Scott Schroeder will be serving up his famous fried chicken.

Wham. Bam. Thank you, Sam!

June 2, 4:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.
Nodding Head Brewery
1516 Sansom St.
Sam Calagione, head of Delaware brewery Dogfish Head, will be sharing from his own collection. Older versions of Raison D'Extra, 120 Minute IPA, Immort Ale and Fort will be served.

Hips 'n Hops Beer & Yoga

June 3, 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.
Whole Foods Market
500 W. Germantown Pike, Plymouth Meeting
Yoga and beer mix just as well as you always suspected they would. Whole Foods partners with New Hampshire's Smuttynose Brewery for an hour-long yoga class, followed by a rooftop terrace tap takeover.

Plan B Brew Day

June 3, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.
Dock Street Brewery
701 S. 50th St.
Anne-Catherine Dilewyns, the 26-year-old head brewer at Brewery Dilewyns in Belgium, is throwing a party with Dock Street's Justin Low. The pair created Philly Beer Week's official collaboration brew, Philly Tripel Plan B.

Slider Showdown with Deschutes Brewery

June 4, 5:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.
Di Bruno Bros.
1730 Chestnut St.
The guests are the judges at this culinary showdown. Oregon's Deschutes Brewery is bringing Not the Stoic beer while cooks at Di Bruno, celebrating its 75th anniversary, create their best sliders.

Kick the Keg Wing Fest

June 8, 4 p.m. to 7 p.m.
Keating's River Grill
201 S. Columbus Blvd.
To close Philly Beer Week in the most appropriate way, the Hyatt Regency at Penn's Landing is holding a kegger. Snack on buffalo wings and help polish off everything left in the tanks.

Competition

Who will come out ahead when Yards and Kite & Key battle it out during Throwdown in Franklintown? / PROVIDED

Throwdown in Franklintown

June 1, 2 p.m. to 6 p.m.
Kite & Key
1836 Callowhill St.
A friendly war between Yards Brewing and Kite & Key brings together staff and customers for some pretty outrageous contests. On the list this year are chariot racing, tug o' war and sumo wrestling.

Horoscope

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. Use a little restraint in social situations. You should be more tactful. You will appear foolish if you try to be the life of every party.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. It's a good time to refresh your surroundings. Let those affected by your decisions have a say. Don't make any oral agreements without doing thorough research.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. An unexpected partnership will provide you with a way to increase your income. Keep an open mind if someone offers to help.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Don't take any risks with your finances or career. You will encounter problems if your scheme backfires.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. You will feel the need to experiment with new ideas and projects. Others may not be in agreement with your plans, but you will make gains if you let your imagination run free.

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. Examine an investment idea, but avoid getting involved in a joint venture. Your reputation will escalate if you are loyal.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. Someone close to you is unclear about your feelings. Say what is in your heart.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan. 20. Your future will improve once you share your ideas with an influential person. You will be obliged to back up your plans with facts, so be prepared.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb. 18. Your self-confidence needs a boost. Spend time with children or friends and engage in physical challenges that will get your motor running.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. You will lose respect if you allow others to take advantage of you. Don't fall short because you put your needs last.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. An old partner is likely to want to reconnect. Your charm and attractiveness will stir up some interest with new and old acquaintances.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21. Your career path is questionable. If you don't enjoy what you're doing, find a way to make work more engaging. BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Not a gun law issue

Re: 'Victim's father blames government "idiots" as town mourns killings' (Metro, May 27) Though there is no doubt that stricter enforced gun laws would have prevented the shootings, the fact remains that at the end of the day, we live in a culture where a woman saying "no" is the cause of violence and death. Violence against women is belittled and seen as a joke. And mental health issues seem to be what is being blamed for this tragedy. People with mental issues live full lives without stabbing or shooting anyone, so while I have no doubt that Elliot Rodger had issues, they aren't to blame. Plenty of people in the world are lonely and are not having sex, and yet they don't go on murderous rampages.
TOVA WEISBLATT, VIA EMAIL

Be careful what you wish for

Re: 'Elect Clinton for historical significance' (Metro, May 28) I enjoyed the letter calling to elect Hillary Clinton president for the sake of historical significance. But a flaw in that argument is that one could advocate electing Sarah Palin for the same reason. We need to find more compelling reasons to elect a candidate.

Revere shocked even himself with homer

MLB. Ben Revere blasted his first career home run after more than 1,400 major league at-bats.

Ben Revere was given a warm welcome back to the dugout after his first home run Tuesday. / GETTY IMAGES

One of baseball's most impressive streaks came to an abrupt and unexpected end Tuesday night when Phillies outfielder Ben Revere blasted his first home run … ever.

In fact, prior to the seventh inning of a 6-2 loss to the Rockies, Phillies manager Ryne Sandberg, along with baseball fans everywhere didn't think they would ever see Revere hit a homer — including the speedster himself.

"When I got to second base, I didn't know what to do," Revere said. "When I hit it I knew I got it good. When I looked up and saw [Michael Cuddyer] look up, it kind of hit me a little bit. I was trying not to smile, but some of the guys got on me."

Revere played an incredible 384 major league games and had gone 1,466 at-bats without hitting a single dinger, making him the active leader and leaving everyone else in the dust. His most recent came way back in Single-A several years ago.

"You have to give him credit for going out there for that many at-bats and to finally get that first home run," Cole Hamels said. "It's a special moment. Hopefully there will be more of that to come with not as many at-bats in between. We know he's capable of doing it, but it's an exciting moment for him. We'll probably give him a good time — the hitters will razz him a little more in [batting practice] tomorrow."

Even more remarkable is that the slap hitter only just hit his first double of the season this past weekend, his 40th hit of the season.

"It was just a matter of time," Revere said. "My game is to hit line drives and to hit the ball on the ground. I get in a lot of trouble when I hit the ball in the air. But this time it went over the fence. I wish we would have won the game, but it was a good feeling."

Sandberg said Revere hits the long ball occasionally in batting practice, but it was clear from the reaction of his Phillies' teammates back in the dugout after his first ever trot around the bases that it was a special moment for the center fielder.

"It's past me," he said, "and now I'm just trying to get 400 more."

Lesson learned

Pacers star is sorry

After suggesting LeBron James' trash talk was a sign of weakness back in Game 4, Pacers forward Lance Stevenson came forward to admit he should have kept his thoughts to himself. "I've been learning since I got in the league," Stevenson, whose squad played for their playoff lives Wednesday night, said. "I came a long way. And I'm gonna keep learning till I get to that point where I'm a real pro."

The Phillies need to make some changes offensively, and mixing Howard and Ruf could be a viable one very soon. / GETTY IMAGES

Howard, Ruf could platoon at first base

MLB. Darin Ruf is a powerful right-handed bat, but where does he fit into the Phillies' offense?

Now that Darin Ruf has returned to the big league roster after a spring training injury, the Phillies need to get him onto the field.

Though the right-handed slugger can play a corner outfield position, it might make more sense for the Phillies to get him at-bats playing first base.

It is a simple argument to make. Ryan Howard, 34, has struck out in nearly half of his at-bats against a left-handed pitcher, 25 times in 52 tries.

It isn't ironic, then, that Ruf, 27, hit a homer off lefty Jorge De La Rosa on Tuesday night, his first long ball since returning to the 25-man roster?

But not so fast. Howard, who is off to a slow start but has been off to slow ones before, is due $25 million this season.

Can the Phillies afford to waste that money on the bench? Or should they be optimistic and give him the time he needs to start using the entire field and hitting for power as the weather heats up?

Manager Ryne Sandberg is open to the idea. Which makes sense, because with an offense as lackluster and inconsistent as the 2014 Phillies' is, the team better be open to almost anything.

"Yeah, if it happens to work," Sandberg told reporters. "It's an opportunity to have a lineup like that, and if it produces that becomes an opportunity … to possibly get some consistency with the offense against right-handed and left-handed pitching."

Howard has hit just .183 against lefties over the last three seasons while Ruf has a career mark of .363 against southpaws.

Howard is also somewhat of a liability defensively, though his work at first base has steadily improved as the season has gone on. But in late-game situations, Sandberg has repeatedly lifted Howard for a defensive replacement like John Mayberry Jr.

"I think he has come a long way on the defensive side," Sandberg said of Howard. "I think he has gotten in better shape as we've gone along. He's moving around real good at first base.

Big money

Howard's deal with the Phillies could last until 2017 and net him $25 million a season until then.

MLB. Phillies host Mets for five-game series on home turf

Chase Utley will look to stay toward the top of the league in batting as the Phillies host the Mets starting Thursday. / GETTY IMAGES

One of the best things about baseball is that a new game, a new series, even a new inning can mean a fresh start.

The Phillies look to start from scratch Thursday night as the Mets come into town for five games in five days at Citizens Bank Park.

The long series, the length of an NLDS bout, could really give fans a read into what kind of team the Phillies actually are. If they are able to take down the Mets, be flexible and adjust to their division foes as the series drags on, it would be a good sign for Ryne Sandberg's club. A series win would certainly help the team inch closer to getting back to .500 and back into the thick of the tightly packed NL East.

The Phillies will throw all five members of their starting rotation up against all-five of the Mets', the most interesting matchup coming Sunday afternoon when Cole Hamels faces off against Jon Niese in a battle of lefty aces. EVAN MACY

Probable starters

The Phillies will unleash all five starters against the Mets in this extended series.

- Thursday: Zack Wheeler (1-5, 4.63 ERA) vs. David Buchanan (1-0, 3.60 ERA)
- Friday: Rafael Montero (0-2, 4.96 ERA) vs. A. J. Burnett (3-4, 3.51 ERA)
- Saturday: Jacob deGrom (0-2, 1.83 ERA) vs. Kyle Kendrick (1-5, 4.04 ERA)
- Sunday: Jon Niese (3-3, 2.74 ERA) vs. Cole Hamels (1-3 4.43 ERA)
- Monday: Bartolo Colon vs. Roberto Hernandez

US Open absence

Woods says he won't be ready for US Open

Tiger Woods will sit out his second straight major this June, as the 14-time champion is still out recovering from back surgery.

"The U.S. Open is very important to me and I know it's going to be a great week," Woods told the media. "Despite missing the first two majors, and several other important tournaments, I remain very optimistic about this year and my future."

Woods has not played in a tournament since March, and will miss his sixth major since turning pro. METRO

NFL owner dies

Bucs, Man U owner Glazier dies at 85

Malcolm Glazier, owner of two major sports franchises, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Manchester United, passed away on Wednesday after battling his way back from a pair of strokes in 2006.

Glazier bought the Bucs for a then-NFL record $192 million in 1995 and was at the helm when they won the Super Bowl in 2002.

He purchased his Premier League squad for $1.47 billion in 2005 and owned the team during league titles in 2007, 2008, 2009, 2011 and 2013. METRO

WHAT TO KNOW WHEN PLAYING DAILY LEAGUES

When word broke last week that Prince Fielder would undergo neck surgery, owners in yearly fantasy leagues kicked their dogs and cried themselves to sleep. Daily leaguers shrugged and went about their business.

The emerging scene known as daily fantasy continues to attract more and more players because of situations like this. The epic nature of traditional season-long leagues is rewarding at the end of the rainbow, but can crush souls along the way. Meanwhile, daily salary-cap leagues that pay out after one day of action let players get a fresh start every day. We give you tips to get the money.

Prince Fielder's season-ending injury has daily fantasy players depressed. / GETTY IMAGES

Spend on starters

Mike Trout and Miguel Cabrera have the potential to go 0-for-4 any given day no matter the match up. That's not the case with pitchers, who are far more consistent on a start-to-start basis. So when deciding what positions to extract value from, getting cheap at the starting pitcher spot is a mistake.

Small sample size

When selecting your nightly lineup of batters, there is a plethora of statistics to digest. The simplest stat many people put a ton of weight in is historical batter vs. pitcher numbers. Don't do it. These numbers often contain a small sample size, much of which is irrelevant to that night's game. Justin Morneau is 6-of-36 with no homers against Zack Greinke in his career. But how many of those were in Coors Field, or when Grienke was pitching at a Cy Young level? Batter splits have a much bigger sample size.

The little things

Everyone knows to start batters at Coors Field and pitchers at Petco Park. That's not going to yield a ton of profit. Other ballpark tendencies, such as the right-field porches in Boston and San Francisco, provide sneakier value. We can also squeeze extra at-bats out of guys that hit near the top of the order, and road batters because they are guaranteed a full nine innings of at-bats.

Metro does not endorse the opinions of the author.

NFL news

Ray Rice avoided trial on assault charges following an ugly incident with his fiancee. But that doesn't mean the first-time offender will avoid the long arm of the commissioner's office. Rice tarnished the NFL in a public way, meaning a one- to three-game suspension is expected. Couple that with Rice's washed-up 2013 tape and Lorenzo Taliaferro's weekend arrest, and Bernard Pierce has an opportunity to run with the Ravens' starting gig.

SATURDAY, MAY 31ST

FRED BEANS HISTORIC USED CAR SALE

Doylestown, PA – Fred Beans, CEO and Founder of the Fred Beans Automotive Group located in Doylestown, PA, has announced a ONE DAY SALE on Saturday, May 31st at 9:00AM, where pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. This sale is being held due to overwhelming public demand.

Cars will be clearly marked, so come early for the best selection. This is a ONE DAY ONLY sale designed to get the local community driving again.

Fred Beans' pre-owned inventory levels need to be reduced to make room for shipments of new models arriving daily. As a result, all 8 Fred Beans Doylestown locations are selling these overstocked pre-owned vehicles to the public at drastic discounts in an attempt to clear excess inventory.

In addition to this huge variety of pre-owned vehicles, the Fred Beans Family of Dealerships in Doylestown features new Ford, Lincoln, Mitsubishi, Dodge, Chrysler, Jeep, Hyundai, Nissan, Subaru, Chevrolet, Cadillac, Buick, and GMC vehicles.

Fred Beans believes reviving the economy starts at home, and changing things locally will lead to changing things nationally.

In addition to the Fred Beans Family of Dealerships' extra inventory, additional vehicles have been acquired at incredible prices from various banks, repossession companies, auto auctions, credit unions, lease companies, and rental companies for this sale.

The sale will make pre-owned vehicles available for as low as $999, prices not normally offered to the general public. According to Fred Beans, "We want to give our customers a reason to believe in the local economy again. Someone has to look out for their best interests."

Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM to inspect the entire inventory and find the car that is right for them. Every vehicle will be cleaned, detailed, and fully prepared for instant delivery. On the evening of May 30th after close of business, Mr. Beans and his team will mark the special sale price on each and every vehicle.

Because Fred Beans' customers are feeling the credit crunch right now, the Fred Beans Automotive Group has given the dealerships' financing managers the resources necessary to get most customers' credit approved on the spot.

The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships has $10,000,000 in lending power, the result of over 50 years of strong relationships with the area's leading lenders. This means that customers with "less than perfect" credit history can have their credit approved and drive a quality pre-owned car, truck, or SUV home by lunchtime on Saturday.

Even if a customer's credit report shows a bankruptcy, divorce, tax lien, slow payment history, missed payment, or repossession, or if a customer is a first time buyer, Fred Beans may get them approved.

This special ONE DAY ONLY sale will be held at all 8 Fred Beans Doylestown locations this Saturday, May 31st, at 9:00AM.

Pre-owned vehicles will be sold for as low as $999. Customers are encouraged to arrive and register by 8:15AM for the start of inspection. Incredible sale prices, starting as low as $999, will be posted no later than 8:00AM. All vehicles will be sold on a first come, first serve basis. The Fred Beans Family of Dealerships is expecting a high volume of customers for this sale, so be sure to reserve your spot early.

Customers wishing to trade in a vehicle are asked to bring their title or payment book for immediate delivery. Fred Beans will even pay off your trade-in in full, no matter how much you still owe on it.

Most of these surplus pre-owned vehicles will get sent directly to auto auctions for liquidation. So, if anyone has been thinking about purchasing a good, clean, dependable pre-owned car, truck, van or sport utility vehicle, do not miss this special ONE DAY ONLY sale.

Courtesy transportation available from all local airports, train stations and bus depots.

Vick, Ryan differ on who will start

NFL. Jets coach Rex Ryan and Michael Vick differ on whether the Jets' quarterback competition is truly anyone's game.

It all depends on who you listen to when it comes to Michael Vick and his chances of starting in 2014. / GETTY IMAGES

The Jets had the opportunity to stomp out any talk about a quarterback competition on Wednesday. Instead, they fanned the flames.

Former Eagles quarterback Michael Vick told the media last week that second-year quarterback Geno Smith was the starter and he was ready for a mentor role, a shocking admission when management said there would be competition across the board for all positions. Vick reiterated that stance on Wednesday, saying, "Nah, it's not an open competition."

Head coach Rex Ryan sounded — and looked — puzzled when asked why Vick would label the competition as closed.

"I don't know. You know, I don't know. I think there is competition, there's no doubt," Ryan said. "As a coach, you love it because you want to have — there's nothing like [it] — it's great having a competition and things. And obviously you compete in this league with everybody. But when you have competition in your own room, that's what brings out the best in everybody. … For a coach, it's an ideal situation to have that kind of competition."

Vick was unwilling to budge on his comments, let alone clarify. When asked if he would win the job if he outperforms Smith this offseason, he responded, "That's for the coaches to decide."

"I'm just competing every day. I can't tell you exactly what the situation is," Vick said. "I'm competing every day to be the best I can be. That's all I can do. The most important thing is to help this football team get better and win football games."

Quoted

"I don't mean to make light of it, but in a way I think I should. It is the second day of OTAs and we have these questions. Again, let's let it play out."

Have you been diagnosed with post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD)? Are you still suffering frequent and severe symptoms?

If you or someone you know is currently suffering from PTSD, you/they may be interested in taking part in a clinical research study looking at a potential new treatment (an investigational medication) for adults with PTSD. The study is looking at whether the investigational medication improves the symptoms of PTSD when added to a commercially available, approved medication.

To be able to take part in this study, you must:
- be 18–65 years of age (inclusive)
- have been diagnosed with PTSD and still have frequent and severe symptoms
- have been experiencing PTSD symptoms for at least 3 months.

The event that triggered your symptoms must have occurred within the past 15 years.

All study participants will receive study-related care and will be monitored closely throughout the study. Study-related medication and all study-related assessments will be provided at no cost to you.

If you would like to help us evaluate a potential new treatment for PTSD by taking part in this study, please contact

Not getting married? No problem

Elmwood Park Zoo is available for plenty of private events, from company picnics to family reunions to birthday parties.

Elmwood Park loves giving guests a closer look at the zoo animals and the educational work being done there, says Donovan. And the animals don't seem to mind either.

"The zookeepers do such a great job with their care, so the animals are comfortable and just do their thing. Guests come to special events and get to experience all of these live animals, but all the while the animals are just enjoying their habitats," Donovan says.

Events give guests all access to the zoo, which started as a small property in Norristown. Elmwood Park Zoo is celebrating its 90th anniversary this year, and visitors can still see the original zoo built in 1924. Over the years, the zoo's mission evolved to focus on North and South American animals, so visitors can get close to bison, reindeer, frogs, otters, monkeys and many more species.

You can say 'I do' at the zoo

'Tis the season. "Say I Do at the Zoo" is a chance for couples to learn about getting married at Elmwood Park and meet the people who help plan the wedding day.

The zoo provides a unique backdrop for any event, especially weddings. / ELMWOOD PARK ZOO

It's your wedding day and it's time to check on the last-minute details. The dress is pressed to perfection, shoes shined, rings gleaming and birds of prey ready to greet your guests.

Couples who say "I do" at Elmwood Park Zoo in Norristown add a few unusual guests to the RSVP list. This weekend, the zoo is putting on a bridal showcase to highlight nuptials among the animal kingdom.

"Throughout the zoo, there will be all different kinds of vendors. There will be wedding-themed vendors and also general event vendors," says Eric Donovan, director of guest services at Elmwood Park. "You'll meet everyone from florists to magicians to invitation people and photographers."

Elmwood Park's wedding business is beginning to boom three years after its centerpiece hall was constructed. Last year, the zoo hosted six weddings; there are already 16 on the calendar this year.

"You would think a lot of them would have animal themes, but our weddings have been everything from very traditional to the animal theme. We can be very hands-on with the wedding. In fact, for one of the weddings, I actually handmade all of their centerpieces for them," Donovan says. "We really like to work with each of our clients."

Donovan particularly likes the weddings that take advantage of the zoo's offerings.

"One of the great things at our weddings is the animal greet. It's a 30-minute, interactive experience, usually at the beginning of cocktail hour," Donovan says. "It really kicks it off, and provides a unique and different feature for the wedding."

Partying with the animals can continue all night long, he adds.

"You want to go at it with all cylinders, from the animal greet to maybe having an animal show involved to have animal print tablecloths. If you're going to have your wedding here, why not zoo it up?"

This is Elmwood Park's first "Say I Do at the Zoo," and organizers are expecting 19 vendors. It's a free event, but the zoo suggests at $5 donation to help care for the zoo's maintenance and operational expenses.
